

The Soul, Science & Culture of

HOPE

with Antwone Fisher and Rick Miller

Culver City Unified is hosting this powerful symposium on September 7th

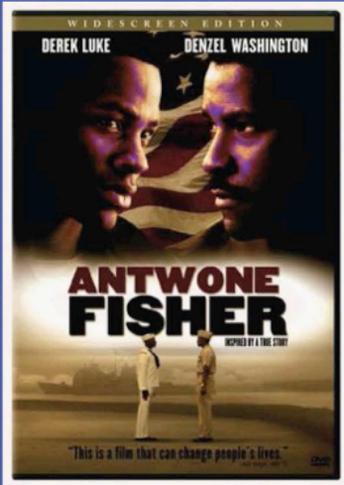

Antwone Fisher, whose life was the inspiration for a major motion picture starring Denzel Washington, and Rick Miller, Founder of Kids at Hope, an international organization that studies family, school and community cultures to better understand how children succeed or struggle, are visiting Culver City to share how HOPE is used as a strategy to achieve success for all children and youth of any background or context.

journey of hopelessness to hope through his writings and film followed by a discussion around those themes and how they relate to the science of HOPE. The symposium concludes with a discussion about the culture of HOPE and how families, schools, youth serving organizations and communities can implement a strategy that models how all children can succeed, No Exceptions!

Come see how a village actually does raise and educate a child don't miss this opportunity.

Entitled The Soul, Science and Culture of HOPE this powerful event will explore Antwone's

#CULVERPRIDE
Schools. Community. Culture.

You may order a copy of the movie Antwone Fisher, Starring Denzel Washington.

Amazon will make a donation to KIDS AT HOPE when you shop at AmazonSmile.

Antwone's books include:

- ▶ Finding Fish
- ▶ Who Will Cry for the Little Boy - Poetry
- ▶ A Boy Should Know How to Tie a Tie

Rick Miller's books include:

- ▶ Kids at Hope -Every Child Can Succeed
- ▶ Youth Development from the Trenches

Antwone Fisher
Author, poet, & screen writer

Rick Miller
Founder of Kids at Hope